COVID-19 NC INFORMATION

SHARE YOUR STORY FROM THE FRONTLINES

As a valued member of Vaya Health's provider network, we know that you are working hard to continue to meet the needs of those you serve during this global pandemic. During Mental Health Awareness Month, we are joining with other LME/MCOs and provider organizations to tell the stories of behavioral health providers on the frontline who continue to ensure tens of thousands of our state's residents—those with serious mental illnesses, substance use disorders and intellectual/developmental disabilities—receive the care they need.

This joint effort, #FacesOfTheFrontlines, is the latest initiative from the Partnership for Community Well-Being, the partnership of North Carolina's LME/MCOs and provider groups that launched #CareForNC. Share your story and help us spread the word that behavioral health providers are important faces on the frontlines during COVID-19.

Getting started

The partnership developed guidelines for story ideas, as well as tips for taking photos or shooting a video. Download the guidelines here and the tips here.

How to submit your story

Submit your story using the online form or by email at carefornc@gmail.com.

If you have questions, please email Vaya's Office of Communications. Thank you, and we hope to hear from you!
